RESISTED THE OFFICERS.

Sensational Battle Narrowly Averted at Little Hocking.

Special Constable Stowe went down to Little Hocking Thursday with writs of replevin for a lot of lumber lost by the Mountain State Manufacturing Company during the recent flood. He was accompanied by a number of employees of the company who expected to take charge of the property. When they arrived at Little Hocking they found the lumber guarded by ten or a dozen men, who positively refused to give it up and would not recognize the writs of replevin. Both parties of men were very determined and for a time trouble was imminent. Many of the men were said to have been armed with clubs and stones and a clash would have been serious. The parties did not come together, however, as the Constable came back to Marietta without the lumber.

On Friday warrants were issued by Squire Guyton for the arrest of four of the party at Little Hocking on the charge of resisting an officer. Three of the men, George Alter, Frank Glazier and David Gillen, were arrested and brought to this city. All gave bond for their appearance before Squire Guyton on Saturday.

TWO REPORTS.

Committee Unable to Agree on the March-Garrison Contest.

The committee of Council appointed to investigate the March-Garrison contest in the First Ward met Thursday evening at the office of City Solicitor Richards and went over the matter in detail. The committee was unable to agree and two reports will be submitted at the regular meeting of Council next Tuesday evening. The majority report, signed by three members of the committee, will find that there is no ground for the contest and that Mr. Garrison is entitled to his seat. The minority report will hold that there are sufficient grounds for the contest. When the matter comes up for final consideration a lively discussion will undoubtedly follow.

Marietta Improvement Association.

The Marietta Improvement Association hope for the co-operation of the business men and families in improving the condition of Front street to Putnam and Putnam to Fourth.

The committee on "Parks" has commenced its work with vigor and with the assistance of the school children and the Lobdell Cycling Club and generous citizens, hopes to add ornament to cleanliness there.

The joint committee on sidewalks and street cleaning met at Mrs. P. B. Crosby's Third street, Thursday evening, Mrs. Charles Turner, chairman, and voted to canvass for small weekly subscriptions (say ten cents) to defray the expense of a uniformed man with modern implements to follow the street sweeper daily and remove all the dirt collected from sidewalks and streets. This in no way interferes with the City Street Commissioner who gives the most generous assurance of encouragement and assistance in this new scheme for beautifying old Marietta.

Famous Suit Compromised.

The famous suit of Mr. George Thompson against the B. & O. S. W. railway for $10,000 for injuries received in the Torch Hill wreck, was compromised yesterday, but Hon. L. T. Neal, the attorney for the plaintiff, would not give out the figure received. It is understood, however, that it was more than $4,000.—Chillicothe News.

Thompson, it will be remembered, was the fireman on one of the engines that collided and was so badly scalded and crushed that it was thought it would be impossible for him to recover. He was brought to Belpre where he was under the care of physicians for months.

Arbour Day.

Yesterday was Arbour Day, and it was to some extent observed. Several of the schools planted trees, which it is hoped will grow up to be useful members of tree society, and an honor to the planters.

The members of the Village Improvement Society planted a great many flowers which were graciously furnished by the children of the public schools. In Muskingum Park are placed a number of beds and boxes, and in them the ladies have planted many flowers of various kinds.

The Hypnotists.

The Lees gave their second performance before a fair-sized audience at the Auditorium Friday night and the entertainment was fully up to that of Thursday evening. Several local persons afflicted with stammering have placed themselves under the treatment of Mr. Lee and have been cured.

In West Virginia.

The Fischer Oil Company is starting a well at Sandyville on the R. & S. R. about ten miles East of Ravenswood, in Jackson county, W. Va.

Five wells are being drilled in the Eastern edge of Jackson county, next to Roan county, with a view to getting gas for Charleston.

MAGNANI & CO.

ONE OF THE FEW

Of the Old Time River Navigators Who Still Survive.

Captain David T. Brown, formerly of this city, now a prominent citizen of Beverly, Ohio, is the oldest surviving Muskingum river steamboat commander, having commanded the elegant steamers "Shevoit and Lizzie Martin, in the Zanesville and Pittsburg packet trade previous to 1860.

"Doc" commenced his steamboating career way back in the early forties, shipping on board the steamer May Queen, Captain William Bowen, as second engineer, in the Zanesville and Cincinnati trades. Becoming tired of steamboat life he settled in Beverly and engaged in the manufacturing of woolen goods and in the saw mill business, still retaining that business.

At present of the large number of persons that were engaged in steamboating on the Muskingum river packets in the early days, only A. J. Hahn, of this city, and Edward Nash, of Gratiot, engineers; Frederick Hayward, of Morgan county, clerk; William Culbertson, of this city, carpenter, and Edward Martin, of this city, clerk and captain, remain. All have a peculiar love for the Muskingum river and the steamboats and other water craft that navigate its waters.—Zanesville Times Recorder.
